MSD: Professional Dress and Implementation Responsibility

Employees are expected to dress in good taste, be well groomed, and maintain a professional image that distinguishes staff from students and encourages students to uphold school dress expectations. School-approved special events, physical education instruction, designated work days, or job-specific uniforms or work clothing may justify reasonable exceptions.

Supervisors are responsible for communicating staff conduct standards and addressing violations according to District policy. Principals and faculty representatives share responsibility for upholding community standards in the implementation of staff conduct expectations.
